This Bug Bounty Program is run by Blenheim Chalcot LTF Limited, a limited company registered in England and Wales with company number 05064255, which has its registered office at Scale Space, 58 Wood Lane, London, W12 7RZ, United Kingdom (trading as, and referred to hereinafter as "Blenheim Chalcot LTF" or "we" or "our").

What is Blenheim Chalcot LTF's Bug Bounty Program?

Our Blenheim Chalcot LTF Bug Bounty Program allows us to recognise and reward bug bounty hunters and members of the Blenheim Chalcot LTF community ("Hunters") for helping us find and address bugs in Blenheim Chalcot LTF's protocols and software ("Bugs"), in accordance with the terms set out in this document. If you discover a Bug, we appreciate your cooperation in responsibly investigating and reporting it to us so that we can address it as soon as possible.

Eligibility to participate in Blenheim Chalcot LTF's Bug Bounty Program:

To be eligible to participate in the Blenheim Chalcot LTF Bug Bounty Program, you must not:

- be a resident of, or make your Submission (defined in "How to report a bug" below) from, a country against which the United Kingdom has issued export sanctions of other trade restrictions (e.g. Armenia, Azerbaijan, Belarus, Democratic Republic of Congo, Democratic People's Republic of Korea, Iran, Lebanon, Libya, Myanmar, Republic of Guinea, Syria, South Sudan, Sudan, Venezuela, Zimbabwe); and/or
- be in violation of any national, state or local law or regulation; and/or
- publicly disclose your findings and/or the contents of your Submission(s) in any way without Blenheim Chalcot LTF's prior written approval.

If Blenheim Chalcot LTF discovers that you do not meet any of the criteria above (or if you violate any of the Responsible investigation and reporting rules listed below), Blenheim Chalcot LTF shall disqualify you from receiving any rewards.

What's an eligible Bug?

Generally speaking, any bug that poses a significant vulnerability, either to the soundness of protocols and protocol/implementation compliance to network security, to classical client security as well as security of cryptographic primitives, could be eligible for reward. In addition, security issues with certain services that Blenheim Chalcot LTF offers are in scope as well. Please note that it's entirely at our discretion to decide whether a bug is significant enough to be eligible for reward.

What's ineligible?

- Bugs which have already been submitted by another user or are already known to the Blenheim Chalcot LTF team or have already been publicly disclosed;
- Blenheim Chalcot LTF's development team, Blenheim Chalcot LTF's employees and any other person employed in any way by Blenheim Chalcot LTF, Blenheim Chalcot or any of the Blenheim Chalcot ventures, directly or indirectly, are not eligible for rewards;
- Anyone engaged by a user of the Blenheim Chalcot LTF codebase to review or audit Blenheim Chalcot LTF's code (which has been specifically developed for that user) in exchange for remuneration will not be eligible for rewards.

What's out of scope?

The following security issues are currently not in scope (please don't report them):

- Volumetric/Denial of Service vulnerabilities (i.e. simply overwhelming our service with a high volume of requests);
- TLS configuration weaknesses (e.g. "weak" cipher suite support, TLS1.0 support, sweet32 etc.);
- Reports indicating that our services do not fully align with "best practice" (e.g. missing security headers or suboptimal email-related configurations such as SPF, DMARC etc.);
- Issues surrounding the verification of email addresses used to create user accounts;
- Clickjacking vulnerabilities;
- Self XSS (i.e. where a user would need to be tricked into pasting code into their web browser);
- CSRF where the resulting impact is minimal;
- CRLF attacks where the resulting impact is minimal;
- Host header injection where the resulting impact is minimal;
- Network data enumeration techniques (e.g. banner grabbing, existence of publicly available server diagnostic pages);
- Reports of improper session management / session fixation vulnerabilities.

Responsible investigation and reporting rules

Responsible investigation and reporting includes, but is not limited to, the following rules:

- Don't violate the privacy of other users, or destroy data, etc.;
- Don't defraud or harm Blenheim Chalcot LTF or its users during your research; you should make a good faith effort to not interrupt or degrade our services;
- Don't target our physical security measures, or attempt to use social engineering, spam, distributed denial of service (DDOS) attacks, etc.;
- Report the bug only to us and not to anyone else; and
- In general, please investigate and report bugs in a way that makes a reasonable, good faith effort not to be disruptive or harmful to us or our users. Otherwise your actions might be interpreted as an attack rather than an effort to be helpful

Reward

Blenheim Chalcot LTF's Bug Bounty Program rewards are at the sole and absolute discretion of Blenheim Chalcot LTF.

- The reward for eligible bugs is a payment of up to £100.
- We may, at our sole and absolute discretion, pay more than £100 for particularly serious issues, i.e. that the identified issue could put a significant number of users at risk of severe damage, monetary or otherwise.
- Each bug will only be considered for a reward once.
